SACRED GRAND CONCERT,

SUNDAY EVENING, JUNE 20, 1864. MAD, CECILIA Y. KRETSCHMAR, Prima Donna Cathedral de St. Aloysius.

SCENE 1.—The First Mutterings of the Storm in Tennessee—The Vigilance Committee—Preparations to Hang the Schoolmaster—"What's the Use of Eddication?"—The Hanging interrupted by Pomp—The First Blow for Freedom—Tableau—The Lone Widder and her Hopeful Son—A Bright Prospect—in View—Niggers Cheap and Money Plenty—The "Wanderers on the Face of the Arth"—Villar's House—The Schoolmaster Hunted Down—Southern Hospitality Illustrated—Toby and "de Detil"—Silas Ropes in Pursuit of the Fugitive—Mysterious Disappearance of Penn Hapgood—Rage of the Man Hunters—Whipping a Free Nigger—Carl Works a Miracle—Attack upon Villars—A Daughter's Devotion—Struggle with Silas Ropes—"Pomp, the Slave!"—"No. Pomp, the Freeman!"—Tableau—Exterior of Oudjo's Cave—The Fugitive Finds a Friend—The Cave a Refuge—Is it Gloomy?—The House of Bondage is Gloomy—Is it Damp?—It is not with the Cruel Sweat of the Flave's Brow and Back—Is it Cold?—The Hearts of our Tyrants are Colder—Mountain Pass—The Madame Kretschmar has been long and favorably known to the citizens of Washington. To say that she ably and fully sustains the position which she occupies is but a faint expression of the merit she deserves. As an artiste, she stands first in rank and excellence; as a lady of moral worth, she has no superior.

M. THEODORE HABLEMANN, Tenore de Grazia, Anschutz's Grand Opera, New York.

HERR JOSEPH HERMANNS. Basso Profundo of Her Majesty's Royal Theater. London.

HERR S. J. SIEPHANI, Prince of Pianists, whose eminent services have been secured expressly for this mammoth production of Sacred Song.

To speak of the trio who are to support Mad. Cecilia Kretschmar on this occasion would be a waste of time. They are so world renowned that pen fails to accord to them descriptive appreciation bestowed upon their fruitful talents by an idolizing public, who are more than ever ready to welcome them to the innermost recesses of their musical soul. This entertainment has been arranged and perfected by the friends of Malame Kretschmar as a grand compliment to her and the renowned artists who support her, proving to Messrs. Hermanns and Habelmann the cherished recollections consequent upon their late brilliant engagement with our parexcellent manager. Mr. Grover. No labor will be spared to render it acceptable to the honor of all concerned. Most choice gems of sacred composition have been selected, and will be given to satiate the highest anticipations of all who may favor this festival with their presence.

Mr. Ford bas generously tendered the use of his beautiful temple of the drama that all may be accommodated with seats as comfortable as may be desired. So unexpected was this mark of courtesy upon the part of Mr. Ford that, even at this early upon the part of Mr. Ford that, even at this early moment, the management beg leave to tender their heartfelt thanks and gratitude in reciprocity

SCENE 3.—Interior of Cudjo's Cave—Blythewood a Prisoner—Master and Slave Change Places—The Hour of Vengeance—Blythewood's Life Saved by Virginia—Attack Threatened—Treachery—Virginia's defense of the Cave—Death of Blythewood—Tableau—The Lone Widow's Idea of Confiscation—The Woman Whippers—A Little Mistake—Cudjo After "Provisions"—Comes Off Well Loaded—Cudjo's Cave—Love—making in the Wilderness—The Council of War—The Cave Discovered by Silas Ropes—Preparations for Defense—The Attack—A warm Welcome to Cudjo's Cave—Grand Tableau—The Runaway and the Free Nigger—Is Carl a Coward 9—Villars a Prisoner—Virginia's Appeal to Silas—Her Heroic Resolve—Capting Sprowl Makes a Speech—The Mountain Torrent—Desperation of Virginia—Timely Appearance of Pomp—Cudjo's Vengeance—Startling Death of Cudjo and Silas Rop s—The Last Attack—Defeat of the Secession—ists—The Old Flag Floats Again in Tennessee—Grand Tableau of Victory. The military and civil authorities, too, have ten-dered their comment and protection. Let them be assured the compliment will not pass unrewarded. Madame Kretschmar further begs leave to tender to her numerous friends, who have so generously to her numerous iriends, who have so generously aided her in former expressions of favor, her sincere thanks, together with her assurance that the approaching soirces, as announced, will be rendered far more brilliant than any former presentation. Seats may be secured at the music store of W. G. Metzerott, corner of 11th street and Pennsylvania avenue, and at the box office of the theater, on and after Friday morning, June 17.

yesterday at half-past 11 o'clock, making the trip in four hours and a half. At the Relay Honse a salute was fired, and at Baltimore, Havre de Grace, Newark, Wilmington and Chester, and other stations, large crowds gave the President an enthusiastic reception. At Wilmington Governor Cannon and staff joined the party and went on to Philadelphia. The reception was magnificent.

The President and Mrs. Lincoln reached the fair at quarter-past 4 o'clock. They went down Eighteenth street in a barouche, drawn by two gray horses. Their son was the only person accompanying them in the carriage. All around the side of the square by which the President entered, the street was rendered almost impassable by the crowd that extended back to the doors and steps of the houses and Havre de Grace, Newark, Wilmington and back to the doors and steps of the houses and other stand-points for observation. The distinguished visitor passed into the enclosure, escorted by the Executive Committee, and surrounded by special friends, and moved on towards Union avenue. There was a swaying mass of humanity already filting the avenue, and, at the words, "Mr. Lincoln is there," from other parts of the house there was a pressure towards Union avenue that rendered it impas-The President slowly made his way until he reached the entrance to the horticultural department. As he passed in, the crowd pressed nown the barricade, overwhelmed the door-keeper, and rushed tumultnously into the horticultural department. Not less than 15,000 people were pressing towards our next Pres-ident at one moment.

After Mr. Lincoln had taken a little rest, he was conducted through the fair, spending two hours in so doing, and shaking hands to an extent that must have been extremely fatiguing. He gave preference to the ladies who thus honored him. He dwelt longest in the Delaware and New Jersey department of the fair, both of which States have done nobly for the gen-

It was after seven c'clock when he returned to the supper room. Present at the table were Hon. Edward Everett, Gen. Lewis Wallace, ex. Gov. Cannon, of Delaware, the Mayor and both presidents of the councils. Mr. Thomas Webster gave, in a bumber, the "health of the President," which was drank in the heartiest sincerity by all present. The President said, in acknowledgment, "I suppose that this toast is intended to open the way for me to say something. War, at best, is terrible, and this of ours, in its magnitude and duration, is one of the most terrible the world has ever known. It has disarranged business totally in many places, and perhaps in all. has destroyed property, destroyed life, and ruined homes. It has produced a national debt and a degree of taxation unprecedented in the history of this country. It has carried mourning among us until the heavens may be said to be hung in black—and yet it continues. It has had accompaniments not before known in the history of the world. I mean the Sanitary and Christian Commissions, with their labors for the relief of the soldiers, and the volunteer refreshment saloons, understood better by those who hear me than by myself. [Applause.] And these fairs, begun at Chicago. next held at Boston, Cincinnati, and other cities. The motive and object that lie at the bottom of them are worthy of the most that we can do for the soldier who goes to fight the battles of his country. From the fair and tender hand of woman much, very much, is done for the soldier, and is continually reminding him of the care and thought for him at home. The knowledge that he is not forgotten is grateful to the heart. [Applause.] Another view of these institutions is worthy of thought. They are voluntary contributions, giving proof that the national resources are not all exhausted. and that the national patriotism will sustain us through all. "It is a pertinent question, when is this war to end? I do not wish to name a day when it will end, lest the end should not come at the given time. We accepted this war. We did ed it for an object, and when that object is accomplished the war will end; and I hope to God it never will end till that object is accomplished. [Great applause.] We are going through with our task, so far as I am concerned, if it takes three years longer. I have not been in the habit of making predictions. I am almost tempted now to hazard one.

"I will say that Grant is this evening in a position, with Meade and Hancock, of Pennnot begin it. | Deafening cheers. | We accept.

position, with Meade and Hancock, of Pennsylvania, from whence he can never be dislodged by the enemy until Richmond is taken. If I shall discover that Grant may be greatly facilitated in the capture of Richmond by rapidly pouring to him a large number of armed men, at the briefest notice, will you go? [Cries of 'Yes! yes!"] Will you march on with him? [Cries of 'Yes! yes!"] Then I shall call upon you when it is necessary." [Laughter and applause, during which the President retired from the stage.]

Gen. Lew. Wallace and Hon, Edward Everett also responded to toasts; and at the conclusion of the speech of the latter, ex-Gov. Pollock, on behalf of the medal committee of the fair, now presented to Mr. Lincoln a silver medal, struck at the United States Mint for the express purpose of a gift of the ladies. The President accepted the present as an additional token of the loyalty of the ladies of Philadelphia, which, he said, was so well established.
